Description of Proposed Works

Please describe the proposed works

Secure by design animal enclosure for my emotional support animals (dog and macaw parrots) consisting of welded steel mesh panels with a 20mm steel frame bolted directly together with m8 bolts

Height 2280mm width 3000mm full length 8255mm - the length that protrudes beyond the front elevation of the property totals 3280mm

I have a large German Shepherd and he has recently escaped from the property on numerous occasions and caused distress to the public. There are Police warnings in place for me to secure the property and land to prevent the dog escaping. He is very dog reactive and should he escape again and harm an animal he is likely to be put to sleep. I am currently erecting new fencing around the property and the property generally is in a state of renovation which draws attention from passers by. I have built a secure cage for my dog which provides a safe space for him which is big enough for him to adequately move around in and this also in turn provides protection to the public. While the dog on occasion occupies the full length of the cage the intention is that the cage will be split so that my macaw parrots can occupy the front part of the cage and have space for flight and training.

This is not a fixed structure and it will have foliage over it too to soften the appearance once other works at the property are finished. The structure does not obstruct the view or light to neighbours at all and is far less imposing than a caravan or campervan on the drive. The cage also does not affect access to our property from the public. The cage is grey in colour.
