

Existing windows and front door

Typical levels of condensation on a winter's morning taken 15 November 2024. The first four picture are my bedroom. The bottom two are the living room and hall respectively.

