Good Morning Gwyn,

Thank you for your email.

We agree with your Authority's Ecologist's comments. Our previous response remains valid. We advise that it is, ultimately, up to your Authority to investigate if the chain of custody with exporting manure and contaminated water to England can be secured. Your Authority should also investigate, through liaison with the relevant bodies, that the agricultural pollution regulations contain specific controls for the management of phosphorus in England.

Kind regards,

Siôn M. Williams
