This is definitely required as their application does not state that this is a take down and rebuild with associated structural interventions, just that they are taking it down to have a look. Therefore, as it stands it is for partial demolition. They received guidance on site that a heritage impact statement was required.

Hello Again Kathryn,

Please can you have a look at the Heritage Statement for the following application: Planning Applications > 11th October > Land at Esculsham Hall Farm

It sounds like you've been to this site already and you may accept the statement which basically states that at this point a statement is not relevant. If you can confirm this ok please that would be great.

Thanks,
