Dear Mr Phillips,

I've run your query past our drainage consultant and he has supplied a response (see below).

Unfortunately, I don't have Neil Taunt's email, so I have been unable to forward it to him directly.

I hope that this satisfies Mr. Taunt's enquiry; if not, I am happy to put him in touch with the consultant directly if you feel that it would help expedite proceedings?

Many thanks & kind regards,
john

Hi John,

Following your email below and our recent conversation, I can confirm that our design has been undertaken in accordance with BRE 365 which states on a site where multiple trial pits have been undertaken an average infiltration rate can be calculated and used for the site.

Kind Regards,

Byron Thorne

Dear Mr Small,

Please see below from our Senior Flood Management Officer regarding the drainage details submitted in respect of condition 11 of planning permission P/2013/0443. I'd be grateful if you could provide the information he has asked for in the second line.

Regards

Hi Matthew,

Thank you for the recent consultation on the above discharge of condition.

Prior to advising further on the discharge of condition the applicant should provide clarification on the rationale of choice of infiltration rate used within the design of the surface water system.

The porosity report contained within appendix F of the BRP Limited Drainage Report (Rev A – March 2016) determines site porosity rates at 2 locations of 2.35×10^{-5} and 1.80×10^{-4} m/s but then assumes a rate of 1.00×10^{-4} m/s for all soakaway design calculations. This may have a significant impact on the soakaway volume required for the site and needs to be resolved prior to commenting on the discharge of condition.

I am assuming that the applicant has demonstrated sufficient evidence to satisfy condition 11 and that soakaway would be permitted on the site?

If you have any questions on the above, please let me know.

Many thanks

Neil
