Hi Dave,

Further to our conversation, I have reviewed the application via the portal which does not contain any information relating to the incinerator – size, purpose, capacity, type etc.

On farm incinerator are normally approved by the AHPA (Animal Health Protection Agency) or via a permit with NRW depending on what they are burning, as the site is currently permitted I would suggest that it would be NRW, however from a planning perspective it would be prudent to request the following;

- Type of Incinerator – including make/model/temperature/time range etc) (you can only incinerate Animal By Products if the exhaust gas is held at 850°C for 2 seconds, or 1100°C for 0.2 seconds. The 850°C/2 second temperature is often achieved by using a secondary chamber to retain the gas for the required 2 seconds.)
- Capacity of incinerators (low capacity is less than 50kg material per hour etc)
- What type of material is to be burned? And origin of the material.
- Waste disposal of the ash thereafter?
- An assessments as to the suitability of the location in terms of adequate dispersion of emissions?

The above should give us sufficient information to evaluate thereafter.

Thanks

Ian
