Philip

I don't think that the actual siting of the new agricultural building will cause any problems for public footpath Bronington 45 (shown as a black dashed line on the attached map). However, as I could find no details on how the applicants intend to access the site during construction I am concerned that they will run vehicles along the public footpath and this may damage its surface. If the surface of the public footpath is damaged during construction by the applicant then this will need to be reinstated after construction to the satisfaction of the council.

Regards

Nicola Holmwood
