Subject: Re: CONSULTATION - ADVERT - App ref P/2017/0094

Dear Cerys

Thank you for consulting with WHGT concerning App ref P/2017/0094 for signage at Chirk Castle.

Signage at Chirk Castle clearly needs updating and the new designs are a vast improvement.

There are however an enormous number of signs in this application, and I am concerned that the visitor experience may become over-saturated by signage.

I realise the signage is over a wide area but I would ask that every sign is absolutely necessary.

Is it necessary to sign every individual disability parking place rather than indicate the row concerned? This also might be more flexible if a different number of such spaces were needed according to the requirements of different groups.

Do we need signs for speed limits and speed bumps?

Too many signs will ensure that they are not all read.

It is also essential that the signs are sensitively sited so as not to impact the enjoyment and views of the very special and beautiful landscape.

Assuming the siting of the signs is done with care, WHGT has no objection to this planning application. Better signage will be a welcome improvement.

Best Regards
Glynis (WHGT Clwyd)
