Dear Prue,

Thanks for your email. I can agree to an extension of time to consider the viewpoints. However, due to procedural deadlines I will require your comments by close of play on 15 January. This will be in order to allow me to place the application onto the Planning Committee agenda if required.

If you are unable to meet with the Trust before this deadline, I would urge you to make your comments on the basis of your concerns at this stage so that they are lodged on the planning file.

Following a site visit and discussions with the Trust and my colleagues from the Built Conservation team, I am mindful to support this scheme. The proposals seek to enhance visitor experience within the wider estate. The current facilities are sub-standard and require upgrading in order to meet visitor demand and expectation. The location of the proposed facilities is outside the formal garden where precedent has already been set for such provision. The design of the units and services required are relatively unobtrusive within this location. My intention is to request that the soil and vent pipes to the toilets be measured so as to be set below the level of the garden wall, ensuring they are not visible within the formal gardens.

I look forward to your response.

Regards

Philip Forster

Philip

I have just phoned your office to try and speak to you but found out that you are on leave until 4th January.

The Welsh Historic Gardens Trust are concerned about this application because, although the proposal might appear quite insignificant, the site is actually in the middle of the early eighteenth century pleasure ground.

We have contacted the property manager at Erddig to arrange a meeting but he wants this to be held in the new year. It is therefore most unlikely that we will be able to respond to your consultation within the 28 days. Is it possible for you to extend the consultation period a little so that we can respond after we have discuss the proposal with the National Trust?

Regards,
Prue Probert
