North Wales Police currently segregate waste into the various waste streams as shown below:

- non-hazardous waste:
  - general waste (landfilled or refuse derived fuel)
  - clinical waste (landfilled)
  - food waste (composted)
  - horticultural waste (composted)
  - recyclable waste
    - plastic
    - newspapers/magazines
    - cardboard
    - glass
    - aluminium tins and cans
    - scrap metal
    - printer/ toner cartridges
    - magnetic media (tapes)
    - confidential paper
    - waste electrical and electronic equipment (WEEE) waste
    - pressurised containers
- hazardous waste:
  - clinical waste (incineration)
  - fluorescent lamps and tubes (recycled)
  - non-lead acid batteries (recycled)
  - acid batteries (recycled)
  - WEEE waste (recycled)
  - asbestos (hazardous landfill)

NWP currently have 43 licensed waste companies who undertake collections of the various waste streams noted above.

It is anticipated that the general waste and recycling service required at Llay will be similar to the current Veolia collection service at Wrexham Police Station site, which is as follows: -

- 4 x 1100 general waste bins – weekly collection
- 4 x 1100 mixed recycling bins – weekly collection
- 1 x 360 litre food waste bin – weekly collection (this will be added to the new Llay as Wrexham's canteen facility has recently closed)

All waste that is removed from site is done so by a licensed contractor and copies of the waste transfer notices are retained by North Wales Police.
