Dear Sir

We as a family, would like to strongly object to the proposed barn laying unit at the above address. Our main concerns are the narrow country lanes which this area of Wrexham consists of, and the large lorries that would become a way of life. We have, as have the rest of this rural community always driven carefully around these country lanes because you do meet the odd lorry that has come this way , and we know how tight it is to pass each other.

I take my granddaughter to and from school and the thought of there being regular large vehicles on these lanes is really alarming.

If two lorries want to pass each other in opposite directions it will not be possible, and the build up of cars behind each of them doesn't bare thinking of.

There have been enough accidents on these lanes.

The other concerns we have are the smell, noise, rats and harm to the established wildlife.

Do they propose to change the name from Talwrn Farm to something else ? because this is not farming and should not be in one of the nicest parts of Wrexham, it should be on the industrial estate.

Personally I think this way of producing eggs is barbaric and thought it was against the law.

Yours faithfully

Christine Howell (Mrs)
