Dear Sirs,

I wish to strongly object to the above planning appeal for the following reasons.

I am extremely concerned by the smell, noise and pollution that it will produce as well as the possibility of fly infestation which is associated with this type of development. Also it is likely to attract vermin such as rats, foxes and feral cats.

The increase in heavy goods vehicles will also cause problems and be a danger to myself and other road users, the access to the site being along narrow country roads.

The building will be within 250 metres of my house and will be visible particularly during the winter months when the leaves fall off the trees and hedgerows as they are deciduous.

Chickens are noisy and cockerels especially so. The lighting from the site will be intrusive especially during the winter months.

I have lived in the area for more than 30 years and am in my latter years and I strongly fear that this development will greatly affect my enjoyment of life.

Yours faithfully

Mrs Eirlys Williams
