Subject: springhill farm appeal

Hi Sharon,

Thank you for your email regarding the appeal at spring hill farm, although I am amazed that it has had to go this far. I had thought that local peoples view in rural areas was now taken much more into consideration than before and therefore giving local people much more say to do with planning at a local level. I must have assumed wrong.

I have attached a copy of my first letter and I would like to draw attention to all that I have said in it as I still feel all the facts in it are fair and important.

I would also like to add that in this uncertain time for the future of wind power the same has not been said about solar energy and once again I absolutely dispute the fact that solar is not an option here in the valley due to the weather and I can and would find you many, many people who have huge success with their instalments of solar panels and indeed we are looking into this as an option for our local school in the hopefully not too distant future.

Also I know and absolutely take on board the importance of renewable energy but I must also again stress the need for rural communities to thrive and tourism is a huge part of that within this valley and people will be affected if this continues to become the way forward and as there are alternatives that mean everyone can benefit and not lose out.

Thank you for your time
