Dear Janet,

Please find the attachment which contains a picture of the actual tail fin. The colour scheme and the "Royal Air Force" will remain the same but the celebrating 90 years will be changed to, 1251 'Berwyn' Sqn (in black) continuing on the same line with, AIR CADETS (in red).

Kind regards,

Stuart

Subject: aircraft tail fin planning application P/2012/0202

Stuart,

Everything regarding the planning application is progressing well, and I hope that a favourable decision will be made at end of April.

As part of the consultation exercise, I have received some comments from Highways, and I attach these for your information. You will note that you will need to get a licence under the Highways Act, and I thought you should be aware of this before a decision is made - in case your timescales are tight.

It is also likely that the decision will need to include some planning conditions. I do not believe that these will be unduly onerous, but it is likely that we (the Local Planning Authority) will need to agree a colour scheme for the fin as this detail has not been made explicit as part of the application. I would suggest that recessive colours are chosen (which can include black - like the photo as shown).

It is also likely that floodlights to display the 'guardian' will not be permitted at this stage. If these are required, they will need a further planning application.

Kind Regards,

Janet
